MR. CHARLES M. STEELE, the present business manager of the Cincinnati News Journal, denies the report that it is his intention to publish a two-cent morning daily. The story was put into circulation to affect the sale of the material and good will of the News Journal.

The Republican Convention at Chicago, to-morrow, will be composed of eight hundred and twenty delegates, and four hundred and eleven votes will be required to nominate. There will be about sixteen contests. The entire Virginia delegation, composed of twenty-four votes, will be opposed. The Republican delegation for Blaine and the Mahone delegation for Arthur. The fate of both candidates is said to depend on the result of this contest.

THE MARSHALL FAMILY

And Other Famous People of a Little Kentucky Town.

Louisville Times.

A correspondent writing from the old town of Washington, in Mason County, says: In view of the interesting ceremonies in Washington City, in honor of Chief Justice John Marshall, I thought a letter from this place, where so many of his near relatives live, and where his mother and father lie buried, might be of some interest to your readers. This is the oldest settlement in Northeastern Kentucky, and at one time was the center of trade for a great extent of territory.

Thomas Marshall, a brother of Chief Justice John Marshall, came here from Virginia in early life and raised a large family, and among them Col. Charles A. Marshall, now living near here. Another brother of the Chief Justice lived in Woodford County—Dr. Louis Marshall. He died a few years since. The writer well remembers seeing him here many times on a visit to his relatives. He always carried a cane that came way above his head.

I have heard it told of the old gentleman, who was a great eater, that while he would be asking a blessing, standing at the foot of the table, as was his custom, and if some favorite dish was missing he would then and there proceed to rate the servants for their neglect.

The old doctor was a great Presbyterian, and used to sit on the rostrum directly in front of the pulpit, standing at church, whether to be seen or to hear the better I never knew.

This old gentleman, as I have said, lived in Woodford County, and taught a school at his place, called Buckpond. The celebrated orator, Thomas F. Marshall, was his son. It was to Buckpond that the parents of the Chief Justice came when they left Virginia for Kentucky, intending to make their future home with their son, Louis. They did not remain there long, it seems, but soon came to the home of their son, Thomas, named for his father and his favorite son. They died here, and their old age and now lie buried in the Marshall family burial ground, adjoining this village.

The mother of the celebrated duelist, Alex. McClung, was a sister of the Chief Justice.

She had another son, John A. McClung, who was distinguished both at the bar and pulpit, for he was a preacher and lawyer at different times. He drowned himself at Niagara Falls some years ago.

His wife was a sister of Albert S. Johnston, who commanded the Confederate army at Pittsburg Landing.

Old Dr. Johnston, the father of Albert Sidney, came to this place from Connecticut in early life.

General Wm. Nelson, who was killed by Jeff. C. Davis, at the Gault House in Louisville, was a native of this place, and went into the navy from here.

The father of Nelson was a physician, and old Dr. Johnston lived in the same house here at different times.

It was something that did not often occur during the war, that the two Generals who were the heroes of the opposing armies, should have been natives of the same small town, and well known to each other.

Such was the case at the bloody battle of Shiloh Church, or Pittsburg Landing, when Johnston, the Confederate, and Sherman, the Federal, met and fought a battle that resulted in the fall of the Confederacy. It is a matter of history that Nelson's coming up at the opportune time at the head of Buell's army saved the day and the Federal army from a great disaster.

Thomas Marshall Key, who lived in your city and was an excellent stuff, went from here. His father was clerk of the court here for many years. John I. Key was an older brother of Thomas. He was on General Halleck's staff at Vicksburg, but was dismissed from the army by President Lincoln on account of some indiscreet language and was sent to the prison of the slaves. The writer was shown a short time since a copy of the order dismissing him.

DEATH OF A QIPSY QUEEN.

Lying in State in Camp With Flowers Covering Her Coffin Lid.

New York, June 2.—On the hill a quarter of a mile south of 21st Street, on the Central Railroad of New Jersey, the camp fire of a gypsy band blazed brightly last evening. Around one of the fires a dozen swarthy men with red bandannas at their throats, and tall horse talk with Henry Keesan, who had driven his nag up from Elizabeth under cover of the darkness, and was open for a trade. The brass buttons of officer Sloan glittered by the fire light. A pack of dogs under each of the dozen or more wagons snarled at strangers who came along.

Inquiry being made for the chief gypsy, the man known as "The old lady," who was six feet in height, broad shouldered, and white haired, arose and came forward. "Yes," he said, in answer to a question, "it is true that the queen of the band is dead. She died a little before 12 o'clock yesterday."

While he was speaking the old man led the queen's coffin, which was covered with flowers, to the hill. "There the old lady lies," he said, pointing to a coffin in the tent. The coffin lid was almost covered with flowers. A crowd of women were around on the ground speaking to one another in whispers. "She was my wife," the chief of the band said. "She was born in a gypsy camp at Norfolk, England, more than a hundred years ago. Her name was Louisa. I don't know how old she was, but I am sure she was over a hundred. She was taken sick here in camp about a week ago, and she died. It was nothing but old age that killed her. We were married in England. I don't know how many years since, and came to this country four or five years ago. We have camped in almost every country of Europe and almost every State in America. We were in Virginia. We have three sons. Two are living a gypsy life in this country—one in our band and one in another—and a third son has settled down in Wales. We shall bury the old lady to-morrow forenoon at 11 in the Evergreen Cemetery."

There are about forty gypsies in the band. They have six tents and a dozen wagons. The dead woman was treated with the consideration due to a queen. She was regarded as an inflexible fortune teller, and she had accumulated a considerable property. When a gypsy dies the horses owned by the dead person are killed and the wagon is burned; otherwise, bad luck, it is believed, will follow the band. Queen Louisa sold all the property that belonged to her shortly before her death, so that there was no sacrifice of horses and no pyre of wagons. It is expected that the funeral will be attended by many gypsies from bands camped in other parts of New Jersey.

WORKING THEM OFF.

George Oliver Convicted of Murder in the First Degree—Johnson Sentenced.

CINCINNATI, O., June 2.—The jury in the George Oliver murder case returned a verdict of murder in the first degree yesterday morning. The jury retired at 1 p. m. Friday. At an early hour yesterday morning they announced that they wished to report. When they had filed into the jury box Judge Avery asked: "Gentlemen of the jury, have you agreed upon a verdict?"

"We have," replied the foreman, "and we find the verdict to be murder in the first degree." The clerk read the verdict to the jury, and the judge said: "We, the jury, find the verdict to be murder in the first degree, as charged in the indictment."

Upon Major Blackburn's request the jury was polled, and each jurymen, rising to his place in response to the question: "Do you find that George Oliver guilty of murder in the first degree?" said: "Yes."

Judge Avery thanked the jury for their service, and they were discharged. Oliver, who has been confined throughout the trial that he would receive a verdict of an inferior degree of homicide or acquittal, and has borne himself with sang froid, looked frightened when the verdict was announced. His little wife, who sat by his side during the entire trial, when the full effect of the verdict dawned upon her mind, gave way completely, and her sobs and sobs sounded through the courtroom, as she clasped her husband's arm.

Benjamin Johnson, the surviving brother, is sentenced to be hanged September 12.

COMPTROLLER CANNON'S VIEWS.

The Financial Outlook Promising and the Banks in Good Condition.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The Comptroller of the Currency, upon being asked to-day what he thought of the present financial situation, said he believed that it was improving. The banks in New York and other money centers had lost a large part of their country deposits, but he thought that as soon as confidence should be restored money would flow again into its usual channels, as it did after the panic of 1873.

"Some of the best and most conservative people in New York," he continued, "think that great progress has been made and that through the summer money will be full and rates low. From all that can be learned from the bank examiners, who are watching the situation, the country banks seem to be in good condition."

Upon being asked what legislation, if any, would probably receive consideration, Mr. Cannon said: "If I think the McPherson bill is the simplest and most available of the measures that are in condition for immediate action, it should become a law. It would increase the circulation of the country by more than $30,000,000, and would contribute greatly to the restoration of confidence. Unless the McPherson bill, or some other measure giving relief to banks, is passed by Congress—and the McPherson bill seems to be the only one that is likely to be reached—there will be a contraction of the currency during the summer and early fall, and it is possible that more financial trouble may occur when it becomes necessary to move the crops."

NORTH POWDER, Ore., June 2.—William and James Casabier, brothers, were found yesterday under seven feet of dirt in their mining camp at Bulwer, 24 miles from here. They have been missing for a week or more, and it is supposed they were buried while asleep during the storm on May 25.

Died From a Snake Bite. DALLAS, Tex., June 2.—W. Terry died nine miles north of this city yesterday from the effects of a bite inflicted by a "copper head" snake Tuesday last.

AN EXECUTION AVENGED.

The Surviving Brother of Anderson Luckey Found Murdered.

CHILLICOTHE, June 2.—Laban Stevens, the last of the three murderers of Anderson Luckey, was executed last Friday. Yesterday Gilbert Luckey, a brother of the murdered man, was found in a pit of sand. His head was crushed in and there was injury to his chest and body, which plainly indicated that he had been foully dealt with.

Cuticura THE GREAT SKIN CURE.

"THOUSANDS OF LETTERS in our possession report this story: I have been a terrible sufferer from skin diseases, and have spent hundreds of dollars and got no real relief until I used the CUTICURA. It cured me of the new blood purifier, internally, and CUTICURA and CUTICURA Soap the Great Skin Cure, and skin beautifiers, externally, which have cured me and set my skin and blood as pure as a child's."

ALMOST INCREDIBLE. James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath, says:—In 1876 scrofulous skin broke out on my neck, until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to medicine failed to cure me. I was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure for ten years, until I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them as directed, and in a few weeks I was cured. Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. Crawford.

STILL MORE SO. Will McDonald, 232 Dearborn Street, Chicago, gratefully acknowledges a cure of scrofulous skin on his neck, face, arms, and legs for seventeen years; not able to work, and in constant pain, until he used the CUTICURA REMEDIES, doctors pronounced his case hopeless, internally cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES.

MORE WONDERFUL YET. H. E. Burdette, Henderson, N. C., cured of psoriasis or leprosy, of twenty years' standing, by CUTICURA REMEDIES. The most wonderful cure on record. A great number of scales fell from him daily. Physicians and friends thought he was mad. He was determined to be a justice of the peace, and Henderson's most prominent citizen.

DON'T WAIT. Write to us for these testimonials in full or send direct to the parties. A cure is absolutely given and given without our knowledge or solicitation. Don't wait. Now is the time to cure every skin disease, scaly, pimple, scrofulous, inherited, contagious, and copper-colored blotches of the blood, skin and scalp in less than a month.

Sold by all druggists. Price: CUTICURA, 50 cents; CUTICURA SOAP, 25 cents. CUTICURA SOAP, 25 cents. CUTICURA SOAP, 25 cents.

BEAUTY For rough, chapped and dry skin, use CUTICURA SOAP, and skin beautifies, use CUTICURA SOAP, wdsdw

A MOB AFTER COURTNEY

Indignant New Yorkers Pursuing and Howling Like Mad.

Crying "Shoot him!" "Hit him with a brick!" "Take him out of the way!"

New York, June 2.—When the movements of the carmen at Oak Point indicated that the race would be postponed the crowd became indignant. A big Irishman near the boat house shouted out: "Any one don't have a race well be after tearing the hull out on down about ye." Then the crowd mounted demially and eddied about and gave expression to the delight it would afford them to get a hold of Courtney. This had a strong effect on Courtney but he only said:

"I have not been ordered out. It would be a swimming match. No one could row outside."

The crowd tried to get up to the boat-house windows to shoot their long-restrained indignation, but Sergeant Keating drove them away until their numbers became large enough to swamp him, and he had to call for help. At one time Courtney put his head out. The roar of yells edged with hisses, that greeted him made him close the door quickly. Dressing himself he told a policeman that he wanted to go to the hotel. Sergeant Keating and twelve men formed in line about the doorway, and Courtney stepped out. Then the crowd rose up and howled. The grand stand was emptied, the pavilion was deserted, the pier was left vacant, and all gathered in the rear of the carmen and his escort. Up the hill they ran on all sides of the blue-coated squad except the front, howling, growling and hissing. "Shoot him!" "Hit him with a rock!" "Take him out and drown him!" The few who remained along shore, with thousands in boats, devoted their energies to cheering Ross, who spouted about in the rollers in line shape and finally started off to accept his invitation to "row over the course, me by." He pulled out nearly half a mile from the shore, found there were some waves there, and then rowed back again. His return was cheered, but the bulk of the crowd, both on land and water had started homeward.

Of the many sportsmen, none present attracted so much attention as a trio composed of pedestrian Rowell and pugilist Mitchell and Cleary.

HINCKLEY IN MEXICO.

A Detective Let Him Get Away When He Was Making in That Direction.

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 2.—On Tuesday last a telegram from Pinkerton's Detective Agency, in New York, was received by the Chief of Police of this city, asking him to board the steamer Junato upon her arrival here from Philadelphia, and arrest a cabin passenger registered as W. A. Smith, but who was in fact the defuncting Fugitive W. S. Hinckley, of the West Side Savings Bank, of New York.

It was learned that Smith, of Ohio, who was the only cabin passenger, corresponded exactly with the description of Hinckley. As soon as the boat made fast, Hinckley, having his satchel, hurried ashore and walked up the street. The local detectives traced him as far as the Georgia Central Railroad depot, but could follow him no further, as a train left for Atlanta about the time Hinckley reached the depot. It is believed that he boarded it and continued his journey to Mexico via New Orleans. No effort was made by the detectives here to head him off by telegraph, as they were not under instructions to do so.

REPORTED IN MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, June 2.—A person giving the name of Harris, arriving a few days since, has been fully identified as Hinckley, the defuncting fugitive.

No Money For Jurors' Fees.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 2.—The jurors called for the June term of the United States Court of the Southern District of Illinois have been called to appear here. The cause is a notification from the Treasury Department that there is a lack of funds to pay witnesses and jurors and marshals fees, and the regular allowance for that purpose being exhausted. The banks have offered Marshal Tanner plenty of money on his own responsibility, but would not loan to the Government, as the United States pays no interest on money borrowed to conduct its business. The Marshal therefore decided to await the next appropriation, which will probably be available in July. In the meantime all prisoners arrested or now in custody, but have to lie in jail to await a jury. The Court will continue in session, but without a jury.

A Newspaper's Trouble.

CINCINNATI, Mo., June 2.—The News Journal newspaper, which was to have been sold at public auction yesterday, was not sold, because as claimed by the stockholders, and as held by the Court, Chas. M. Steele, receiver, had injured the value of the property by reason of his conduct in the management of the paper, and his publicly declared determination of starting a new morning paper. At the request of the stockholders the sale was therefore set aside as a matter of public interest. Mr. Steele resigned the receivership, and Geo. Ward Nichols, of the College of Music, an old New York journalist, was appointed receiver.

A Trip to Bowling.

CINCINNATI, Mo., June 2.—James Kennedy, aged twenty-two, living on Front street, near Parsons, and Phillip and "Red" Hampton, aged fourteen and twelve, sons of James Hampton, residing at 542 East Front street, were drowned by the upsetting of a skiff in which they were taking a ride at the foot of Washington street yesterday evening about 5 o'clock.

High River Predicted.

St. Joseph, Mo., June 2.—The Mississippi River has risen a little over two feet at this point within the past eighteen hours, and last night was ten feet above low water mark. It is predicted that it will be equal to that of 1891, as the snow in the mountains is heavier than ever before known.
